

From Cabal Roots to Reformation

How a Century of Manufactured Control Is Being Dismantled — and How Sons Are Championing the Liberation

(Intro Video) Something is being exposed in our moment that previous generations could only sense. The structures that have quietly shaped culture, government, education, media, and family for over a century are losing their grip — and the exposure is not accidental. Father is pulling the curtain back.

The short version: there has been a coordinated, long-running effort to strip away every loyalty that competes with dependence on a centralized system. Family, faith, national identity, economic independence, local community — each has been targeted, not randomly, but systematically. A person with no father, no faith, no community, and no assets has only the state to belong to. That is the intended outcome. The cabal doesn't need everyone to love it. It needs everyone to need it.

The five fronts are used to create this cultural servant class:

- the erosion of national sovereignty through global institutions (WEF, WHO, UN, EU, etc.),
- the hollowing out of the middle class through monetary policy, (The goal is peasants)
- the weakening of the military and the instigation of wars,
- the degradation of family and education through foundation-funded social engineering,
- illegal immigration and voter fraud; tools to destabilize the economy and sow cultural tension.

Each front targets the same thing — maintaining a compliant servant mindset in people and nations.

*The goal is singular: manufacture the orphan condition at civilizational scale.
Father's counter is much bigger: release sons and daughters who don't need the system because they know who they are and see what Father is doing.*

Here is the important shift: this is not primarily a story about what the enemy is doing. It is a story about what Father is building. And what Father is building is more interesting.

Sons and daughters who know their identity in Christ, who operate from the Council rather than from fear, who carry creativity and courage into their specific cultural sphere — these are the answer creation has been groaning for (Romans 8:19). They don't need the system's permission, its approval, or its provision. They bring a different Kingdom, a different spirit, and different resources into every room they enter.

That formation happens through nine conversations every son or daughter has in God's Council — with Father, not about themselves. Identity. Story. Purpose. Strategy. Tactics. Heritage. Courage. Clarity. Culture. These are not steps in a self-improvement program. They are the Council conversations that produce a son who knows what he carries and where he's going. A daughter who can't be diminished into an orphan because she already knows whose she is.

The seven mountains of culture — Government, Media, Business, Education, Church, Entertainment, and Family — were each taken the same way: Father removed, orphan psychology installed, dependence manufactured. Each is being redeemed the same way: sons stepping into their metron with Living Words and building something the system cannot replicate.

Father is orchestrating this Golden Age. The exposure of hidden structures, the collapse of false narratives, the rise of independent voices, the hunger for something real — these are not political trends. It's an Isaiah 61 Reformation. And the sons and daughters who know Father are not watching it from the sideline. They are the ones bringing Heaven to Earth.

The four appendices below go deeper: the hierarchy behind the cabal, the strategy it has used, and — most importantly — what sons and daughters are specifically called to do in each of the seven mountains, and the Sonship-sponsored themes within those movements.

Here am I. Send me.

There are four Appendices that have an “awakening and encouraging” impact on our hearts. Father is doing some exciting things in this Reformation; it’s inspiring to see the big picture and the progress.

Appendix 1 — The Fauci Example: Who Controls the Controllers?

Rand Paul has been after Anthony Fauci's fraudulent sponsorship of the COVID virus and vaccines for two years. He has mysteriously avoided probing the cabal sponsorship behind Fauci.

Fauci is the entry point for the COVID fraud, but he is not the answer to the question. Anthony Fauci ran NIAID for 38 years. His budget grew from $320 million in 1984 to $6.1 billion by 2020. That budget came from Congress, but the policy direction and research priorities didn't originate with him. He was a node in a system. The question worth asking is: what system? What Cabal sponsorship is operating behind the scenes?

The Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation — the single largest private funder of global health infrastructure, including WHO, GAVI, and CEPI. Gates predicted a pandemic at a TED Talk in 2015, then co-funded the Event 201 simulation in October 2019 — six weeks before the first Wuhan cases — modeling a coronavirus pandemic response including communications strategies around 'misinformation.'

The Wellcome Trust — UK-based, $30+ billion endowment, co-funder of Event 201, with an investment arm holding significant pharmaceutical stock.

CEPI — co-founded by Gates, Wellcome, and the WEF, specifically funding mRNA platform development before COVID and holding commercial relationships with Moderna and BioNTech prior to the pandemic.

The World Economic Forum — the policy coordination between WEF-affiliated health ministers across 194 countries that produced lockdown synchronization within days of the WHO declaration had no prior public infrastructure to explain it.

The same logic applies to Obama, Hillary, and Biden. Obama's administration was staffed almost entirely from a list provided by Citigroup's Michael Froman before the 2008 election — documented by The Intercept from leaked emails. Hillary Clinton's State Department oversaw the approval of the Uranium One deal — transferring 20% of US uranium capacity to Russian state interests — while the Clinton Foundation received $145 million in donations from parties connected to the transaction, documented by Peter Schweizer in Clinton Cash and confirmed in part by The New York Times. Biden's handlers include the BlackRock pipeline: Brian Deese and Adewale Adeyemo both moved from BlackRock directly into senior White House positions.

The people controlling these figures are not primarily politicians. They are the network that controls capital allocation at scale: sovereign wealth funds, central bank governors, the Bank for International Settlements (the central bank of central banks, headquartered in Basel, accountable to no government), and the asset management firms — BlackRock ($10 trillion AUM), Vanguard ($8 trillion), State Street — that are simultaneously the dominant shareholders in virtually every major pharmaceutical company, media company, and bank. They don't need to coordinate through meetings. They coordinate through capital allocation. Companies that serve the agenda get funded. Companies that don't, don't.

The question 'who controls Fauci' is less useful than 'what system was Fauci a node in.' That cabal system is documented if you follow the capital rather than the personalities.

Appendix 2 — The Hierarchy Behind the Cabal

The structure is layered rather than pyramidal, but it has identifiable tiers.

Tier 1 — Philosophical and Occult Foundation

Most researchers who've followed the money and the symbolism long enough arrive at a network rooted in 19th-century secret societies — specifically the Cecil Rhodes/Alfred Milner Round Table network that explicitly aimed to extend British imperial governance globally through education, finance, and political infiltration. Carroll Quigley — Georgetown professor and Bill Clinton's mentor — documented this in Tragedy and Hope (1966) and The Anglo-American Establishment (1949). He wasn't exposing it as a critic. He largely approved of it. His documentation is the most credible primary source available because he was an insider writing approvingly.

The Round Table network spawned the Council on Foreign Relations (US, 1921), the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House, UK), and later the Bilderberg Group (1954), Trilateral Commission (1973), and World Economic Forum (1971). These are not secret — they publish membership lists. What's less publicized is the consistency of policy outcomes among their members, regardless of which political party holds power.

Tier 2 — Financial Architecture

The Rothschild banking network is the most documented long-running financial power center — not as an ethnic claim but as an institutional one. The Bank of England, the Federal Reserve's structural design (1913), and the BIS (1930) all bear its fingerprints in the historical record. Eustace Mullins' Secrets of the Federal Reserve documented the Jekyll Island meeting with primary sources; G. Edward Griffin's The Creature from Jekyll Island did the same more accessibly. The Jekyll Island meeting is now acknowledged in mainstream financial history.

The Rockefeller network operates in parallel. Standard Oil money funded the Council on Foreign Relations, the WHO's predecessor, and the pharmaceutical industry's shift away from natural medicine. The 1910 Flexner Report — funded by Carnegie and Rockefeller — restructured US medical education to eliminate all non-pharmaceutical treatments from accredited medical schools.

Tier 3 — Implementation Layer

This is where Fauci, Biden, Clintons, Obama, and similar figures operate. They are managers, not architects. The evidence suggests they receive direction through placement (career advancement controlled by the tier above), incentive (financial rewards for compliance), and compromise (the Jeffrey Epstein network being the most documented example of the leverage mechanism — Epstein was clearly running an intelligence-linked operation for compromising powerful people, funded through Les Wexner/Victoria's Secret money with intelligence community connections).

Does it have a single mastermind?

The most intellectually honest answer: not a single human individual, but possibly a single spiritual one. The consistency of the agenda across centuries, the coordination across national boundaries, and the patience of the strategy (multi-generational thinking) exceed what any individual human lifespan can coordinate. Ephesians 6 names the principalities and powers operating through human networks. The human tier 1 figures are themselves servants of something above them. This is also Rushdoony's conclusion — the revolutionary man ultimately serves an anti-Christ spirit, regardless of whether he knows it.

Five Observed Strategies and Their Inferred Goals

The Cabal cannot survive a free USA as the leader of the free world. It must be weakened in a way that Obama and Biden had nearly achieved. These Strategies all fit under that Cabal sponsored theme, puppets included.

Strategy 1 — Controlled Demolition of National Sovereignty: Trade agreements (NAFTA, TPP) that supersede national law, WHO treaty proposals that override national health sovereignty, UN Agenda 2030 frameworks, and the EU model transferring legislative authority to unelected Brussels bureaucrats.

Inferred goal: a network of interlocking supranational institutions governing without democratic accountability (globalization).

Strategy 2 — Destruction of the Middle Class Through Monetary Policy: Post-2008 QE transferred $4–5 trillion to asset holders; 2020–2022 money printing added $6+ trillion. Inflation eroded wage earners while asset holders were protected – all to help keep the middle class in the servant mentality of a needy and compliant peasant class.

The net result: middle-class hollowing since 1971 (Nixon's gold standard removal). CBDC is the final tool — programmable money restrictable in real time.

Strategy 3 — Military Degradation: Recruiting shortfalls; equipment depletion through Ukraine transfers without replacement; ideological purges of the officer corps; Afghanistan withdrawal abandoning $85 billion in equipment. Trump has intercepted this strategy.

Goal: either prevent US resistance to global governance, or trigger an unwinnable conflict justifying emergency measures.

Strategy 4 — Cultural Dissolution: Fatherlessness incentivized through welfare structures since the 1960s; gender confusion introduced through education; racial division amplified through Ford, Rockefeller, and MacArthur foundation-funded DEI infrastructure; religious marginalization. There is a premium in every cultural mountain to produce compliant sons who willfully maintain the narrative propaganda and volunteer for the poverty and obedience.

Goal: eliminate every pre-political loyalty — family, faith, community, national identity — leaving only the state.

Strategy 5 — Illegal Immigration as Dual-Use Tool: In the US: electoral math, wage suppression, welfare expansion, cultural destabilization. In Europe: an identical pattern, with Hungary's resistance under Orban proving the strategy is identifiable and interruptible.

Goal: make the nation-state ungovernable at the national level, requiring supranational management and globalist intervention.

The Single Coherent Summary

Working backward from all observed strategies, the goal is legible and singular: strip away every loyalty that competes with the state until dependence is the only option left.

Family, faith, nation, local community, economic independence, cultural identity — all are targets because all are buffers between the individual and total dependence on a centralized system. The cabal doesn't need everyone to love it. It needs everyone to need it.

The cabal strategy is the orphan condition manufactured at a civilizational scale. A planet of orphan servants with no Father, no faith, no family, no community, no nation, and no economic independence — peasants dependent on a system that provides CBDCs, universal basic income, and social credit scores in exchange for compliance.

The Reformation counter is equally singular: sons who know Father don't need the system. They have identity, purpose, provision, community, and authority that the cabal cannot manufacture or remove. This is why the education mountain, the family mountain, and the church mountain are the primary targets — they are the formation systems that produce either orphans or sons.

The problem

The cabal strategy summary: eliminate every intermediate loyalty between the individual and a global governance structure. It is the orphan condition manufactured at civilizational scale.

The Solution

Sonship, Ascension, and Reformation – sons who know Father don't need the one-world system. They carry identity, purpose, provision, community, and authority the cabal cannot manufacture or remove.

Appendix 3 — Redeeming the Seven Mountains

The Cabal's Infiltration — and the Sons Who Are Taking It Back

Every mountain was corrupted the same way: Father was removed and man was enthroned through manufactured deceptions now being exposed one by one. Every mountain is being redeemed the same way: sons who know Father are bringing His Kingdom to earth as it is in heaven.

The Big Picture First

The goal of what Rushdoony called the Revolutionary Man — and what Carroll Quigley documented from the inside in Tragedy and Hope — is singular and legible once you see it: Strip away every loyalty that competes with the state until dependence is the only option left.

Family, faith, nation, local community, economic independence, cultural identity — all are targets because all are buffers against state control. A person with no father, no faith, no community, and no financial independence has only the state to belong to. This is the condition of maximum compliance. The cabal doesn't need everyone to love the system. It needs everyone to need it.

The strategy has been running for over a century through a layered network — the Round Table groups (Rhodes/Milner), the Council on Foreign Relations (1921), the Trilateral Commission (1973), and the World Economic Forum — funded by the same interlocking capital structure: Rothschild banking, Rockefeller foundations, and now the BlackRock/Vanguard asset management system that holds dominant positions in every major pharmaceutical company, media company, and bank simultaneously.

These are not conspiracies. They are documented institutional histories. The conspiracy is assuming this network does not have a coordinated agenda.

Seven mountains. Same agenda in each one. Here is what it looks like in practice — and what sons are called to do about it.

Government

Old — The Power Consolidation Machine

Government was never designed to be the source of a nation's prosperity — but the cabal restructured it to function as exactly that via printing money. Through a century of regulatory expansion, central banking, and manufactured crises (wars, pandemics, financial collapses), legitimate government was hollowed out and replaced with administrative machinery that concentrates power upward, controls populations through dependency, and diverts national wealth to a supranational elite. The result is a system where the state offers security in exchange for compliance, and where the average citizen has been reduced from a sovereign participant to a managed subject. The goal is a manageable peasant class.

New — Stewards of God's Favor on the Nations

Sons in government carry something the cabal cannot manufacture: legitimate authority rooted in covenant, not control. Father's design for government is a steward function — protecting the productive, restraining evil, and creating the conditions under which each nation's unique calling can flourish. Sons are entering legislative, judicial, and local civic roles not to seize power but to dismantle illegitimate structures and restore the servant function government was designed to fulfill.

Decentralization, constitutional fidelity, and fiscal integrity are not political platforms — they are expressions of Kingdom government at work.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

Run for local office — school boards, city councils, county commissions — where the actual formation decisions get made. Bring Council discernment to policy work: hear Father on legislation before you vote on it. Build relationships with other sons in civic roles so Kingdom influence becomes networked, not isolated. Support constitutional law organizations, fund investigative journalism that holds government accountable, and mentor the next generation of civic sons before they get captured by the party machine. Pray in the Courts of Heaven over your jurisdiction as a governing act, not a preparatory one.

Progress Already Made

The decentralization of government power is accelerating visibly. The Trump administration's creation of DOGE — the Department of Government Efficiency — produced the most aggressive federal downsizing in a century, eliminating entire agencies, clawing back billions in wasteful spending, and exposing the administrative state's unaccountable depth to public view for the first time. Executive orders dismantling DEI mandates in federal contracting, withdrawing from the WHO, and exiting the Paris Climate Accord represent the reassertion of national sovereignty over supranational governance structures the cabal spent decades constructing. At the local level, the 2021–2022 wave of parents storming school board meetings produced a nationwide shift in board composition, returning educational authority to families rather than to centralized curriculum bureaucracies. Viktor Orbán's Hungary has demonstrated for over a decade that a nation can successfully exit the Brussels administrative framework, control its borders, and protect Christian cultural heritage against sustained elite opposition — a proof of concept that sons in government mountain worldwide are studying. These are not merely political wins. They are the dismantling of illegitimate structures, precisely what sons in government are called to do.

Media

Old — The Cabal's Primary Weapon

The free press was transformed into a perception management system over the course of the twentieth century. Operation Mockingbird — the documented CIA program to embed assets inside major news organizations — was confirmed by the Church Committee in 1975. Six corporations now control approximately 90% of US media (down from 50 companies in 1983). The same asset management firms that own the pharmaceutical companies own the media companies — creating a structural conflict of interest that makes honest coverage of pharmaceutical products functionally impossible.

New — A Free Press That Amplifies Heaven's Decrees

The collapse of legacy media credibility is not a crisis — it is an opening. Sons are building independent platforms, investigative journalism networks, and truth-first media ecosystems that don't require corporate approval or advertiser compliance. Kingdom media is a prophetic function: exposing darkness, declaring truth, and shifting the cultural narrative from fear to faith. The pen, the camera, and the algorithm are tools of reformation in the hands of sons.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

Start a podcast, Substack, or YouTube channel and build an audience around truth-telling in your domain — you don't need a network's permission. Learn the algorithms well enough to work with them rather than against them. If you have capital, invest in independent media ventures that refuse advertiser capture. In Council, ask Father what narrative He is writing in your city, industry, or nation — then decree it publicly. Sons who can write, speak, film, and broadcast carry a prophetic assignment: name what is true, expose what is hidden, and do it with the courage that comes from knowing whose voice you carry.

Progress Already Made

The legacy media's collapse is not a prediction — it is a documented, accelerating reality. Between 2008 and 2024, US newsrooms shed more than half their journalists. Meanwhile, independent media has filled that vacuum at historic scale: Elon Musk's acquisition of Twitter/X and his dismantling of its algorithmic suppression and shadow-banning infrastructure restored a level of open discourse that legacy gatekeepers had shut down. The release of the Twitter Files — investigative journalism conducted entirely on independent platforms — exposed documented government-media collusion in censorship operations in real time, something no major legacy outlet would have published. Substacks by independent researchers now routinely outperform major newspapers in subscriber counts and reader trust. Joe Rogan's platform reaches more Americans weekly than any cable news network. The Trump administration's defunding of NPR and federal public broadcasting represents the removal of taxpayer-funded ideological infrastructure from the media mountain. These shifts are irreversible. The information environment has been permanently decentralized, and sons with something true to say now have direct access to audiences the captured system can no longer block.

Business

Old — New Thought's Favorite Playground

The business mountain was captured not through coercion but through philosophy. *New Thought* — the nineteenth-century occult framework that repackaged self-divinization as prosperity consciousness — became the ambient theology of Western capitalism. Make money, serve yourself, optimize for personal gain, and call it vision. The cabal perfected this into a global system: fiat currency that transfers wealth invisibly through inflation, ESG frameworks that redirect corporate resources toward social engineering, and BlackRock/Vanguard ownership structures that concentrate asset control while maintaining the appearance of market competition.

New — Father's Primary Workshop for Co-Laboring Sons

Business was always meant to be the primary mountain — the place where sons create value, solve problems, build teams, generate wealth, and fund Reformation across every other cultural sphere. Father is the original entrepreneur: He worked, He rested, He declared it good. Sons in business carry that same creative commission — building companies that solve real problems, treating employees as sons rather than resources, and deploying capital as Kingdom stewards. This is where the Joseph Company emerges: businesses that accumulate resources in famine seasons and distribute them when the moment comes.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

Bring your business into Council: hear Father on strategy, hiring, pricing, and capital allocation before running the numbers. Structure your company so that profit serves a reformation purpose — not as a tagline but as an actual deployment plan. Mentor employees as sons: invest in their identity and calling, not just their skill sets. Build supply chains, banking relationships, and vendor networks with other sons so that Kingdom capital circulates within Kingdom systems. Where possible, exit BlackRock-dominated financial products and move toward sound money, private equity with Kingdom values, or direct ownership. Fund the mountains you can't occupy directly.

Progress Already Made

The ESG movement — BlackRock and Vanguard’s primary mechanism for weaponizing capital against Kingdom values in corporate boardrooms — has suffered a significant and accelerating reversal. Over a dozen US states have passed anti-ESG legislation or withdrawn state pension funds from BlackRock, and the Trump administration’s executive orders prohibiting federal contractors from ESG-based hiring mandates stripped ESG of its enforcement teeth at the federal level. Separately, the Sound Money movement has achieved real legislative wins: multiple states have moved to recognize gold and silver as legal tender and removed sales taxes on precious metals, laying early groundwork for an alternative monetary infrastructure. Bitcoin and decentralized finance, whatever their limitations, have broken the assumption that central banks hold a monopoly on the definition of money. Kingdom Business networks — the Coalition for Transformational Businesses, Pinnacle Forum, and dozens of regional equivalents — are building the relational infrastructure for sons to do business with sons, circulating capital within Kingdom systems rather than feeding the captured system. These are early wins in a long campaign, but the direction is unmistakably toward the Joseph Company model the business mountain was always meant to produce.

Education

Old — The Prussian Compliance Machine

Modern compulsory education was not designed to develop human potential — it was engineered to produce a compliant industrial workforce. The Prussian model, imported into American education in the nineteenth century and funded aggressively by the Rockefeller and Carnegie foundations, standardized curriculum, divided knowledge into disconnected subjects, rewarded conformity, and measured success by the ability to produce correct answers on cue. The result is an education system that has systematically produced orphaned intellects: people who can comply but cannot create, who can repeat but cannot discover, and who have never been asked the question that matters most — who are you, and what were you made for?

New — Discipleship That Awakens Sons into Their Metron

Kingdom education begins with identity and ends with deployment. It trains the nine life skills — Identity, Story, Purpose, Strategy, Tactics, Heritage, Courage, Clarity, and Culture — not as abstract concepts but as the living architecture of a son or daughter who knows who they are and why they are here. Sons in the education mountain are building schools, curricula, homeschool networks, and apprenticeship models that treat the student as a future world-changer rather than a future worker.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

If you're a teacher or administrator, introduce identity formation into your classroom — even inside the existing system. Start with the question: who are you, and what were you made for? Build homeschool co-ops or micro-schools organized around the nine life skills rather than standardized test prep. Mentor young people in your vocational domain — apprenticeship is the oldest Kingdom education model and it still works. Advocate publicly for school choice and parental authority. Pray over your students as a priestly act. Ask Father which students in your sphere carry reformation assignments — and invest disproportionately in them.

Progress Already Made

The school choice movement has achieved a generational breakthrough. Between 2021 and 2025, more than thirty states passed or significantly expanded school choice legislation — Education Savings Accounts, voucher programs, and charter expansion — giving millions of families for the first time the ability to exit the Prussian compliance machine without paying twice for the privilege. Arizona’s universal ESA, signed into law in 2022, became the model and the proof of concept. The Trump administration's Department of Education has moved to dismantle the federal oversight infrastructure that enforced ideological conformity, and proposals to eliminate the department entirely are further along than at any previous moment in American history. The homeschool movement now encompasses more than 3.5 million students — a figure that roughly tripled during the COVID lockdown period as parents got an unobstructed view of what the public school curriculum actually contained. Classical Christian education is growing at a documented rate exceeding 15% annually. These trends represent a mass exit from the Rockefeller-engineered education architecture — not because parents read Flexner, but because Father is drawing His children toward formation systems that don't produce orphans.

Church

Old — A Spiritual Treadmill of Religious Servitude

The Scofield Reference Bible (1909) — funded by Zionist-connected networks and distributed free to seminaries across America — embedded dispensationalism and rapture theology into evangelical Christianity for a century. The effect was precisely what the cabal needed: a theologically trained population that believed its role was to evangelize, not to govern; to wait for extraction, not to build; to maintain the institution, not to reform the culture. Millions of Christians were neutralized from cultural engagement by a theology of evacuation.

New — Ecclesia at Work in Every Mountain

The Ecclesia was never a building — it was a governing assembly of sons carrying Kingdom authority into culture. Sons are leaving the Sunday-morning-only model and discovering that the mountain they occupy Monday through Friday is their primary assignment. Ecclesia@Work means the business leader is a priest, the teacher is a prophet, the artist is a worshipper, and the entrepreneur is an apostle — all operating from Council with Father rather than from a program handed down from a hierarchy of full-time ministers promoting their denomination institutions.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

Find or form a Council group with other sons — not another Bible study, but a governing conversation with Father, Jesus, Holy Spirit, and the seven Spirits of Isaiah 11:2. Bring your Monday morning into Sunday's spiritual authority rather than leaving it at the church door. If you're a pastor, release your people into their vocational mountains rather than recruiting them back into church programs. Teach sonship theology: replace the laundry list of petitions in servant-prayer with co-laboring from Council. Challenge dispensational assumptions by pointing to what Father is actually building now — not what's coming after the rapture.

Progress Already Made

The post-dispensational theological conversation has moved from the margins to mainstream evangelical publishing in the span of roughly a decade, with kingdom-now, preterist, and reconstructionist frameworks gaining serious audience among younger pastors and church planters who have grown up watching the rapture-theology generation sit out cultural engagement entirely. The Marketplace Ministry and Kingdom Business movements — championed by figures from Os Hillman and Rich Marshall to the growing Ecclesia@Work networks — are relocating the primary expression of the Church from the Sunday platform to the Monday workspace, exactly as the Reformation was always intended to do. The Trump administration's repeal of IRS Johnson Amendment enforcement restrictions (which had been used to silence pastors from prophetic civic speech) and the Supreme Court's steady expansion of religious liberty protections — including Fulton v. Philadelphia and 303 Creative — have rebuilt legal ground for the Church to operate as a cultural institution rather than a privately permitted religious club. The Francis Schaeffer legacy, revived through thinkers like Doug Wilson and carried into a new generation through institutions like New Saint Andrews College, is producing pastors who know they are called to bring every thought captive, not to evacuate the world.

Entertainment and Arts

Old — A Darkness-Delivery System

Entertainment was captured early and comprehensively. Hollywood's documented relationships with intelligence agencies, its systematic promotion of moral relativism, its normalization of sexual corruption, occult imagery, and violence-as-entertainment are not accidental byproducts of creative freedom. They are the output of a system that understood the imagination is the most powerful political territory on earth. Whoever shapes what a culture finds beautiful, funny, heroic, and desirable shapes the culture itself.

New — Beauty, Story, and Art That Points Hearts to Father

Sons in the arts and entertainment mountain are recovering something older and more powerful than the cabal's darkness franchise: the conviction that beauty is a weapon, that story is a vehicle for truth, and that art made in co-laboring with Father carries a creative authority that manufactured content cannot match. Kingdom artists are not producing Christian versions of secular entertainment — they are building an entirely new aesthetic rooted in wonder, courage, love, and the reality of what Father is doing in the earth.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

Create — don't wait for a Christian label, publisher, or studio to give you permission. Bring your craft into Council: ask Father what He wants to say through the medium you carry. Fund independent Kingdom artists who are building new distribution channels outside the captured system. Parents: curate the imaginative diet of your children as a discipleship act. Sons with platforms in gaming, film, music, or social media carry extraordinary reformation reach — the question is whether they know it and deploy it from the Council rather than from personal ambition.

Progress Already Made

The entertainment mountain is experiencing its most significant disruption since the studio system was broken up in the 1940s. Streaming fragmented Hollywood's distribution monopoly, and independent content creators have built platforms and audiences that rival studio output in reach while requiring none of the ideological compliance that comes with studio financing. The Sound of Freedom (2023) — distributed independently after major studios passed on it — became one of the highest-grossing independent films in US history, driven entirely by grassroots audience mobilization rather than traditional marketing, and its subject matter (child trafficking networks) was itself a direct challenge to content the captured system had deliberately suppressed. The Daily Wire's investment in independent film and children's entertainment represents serious capital moving into Kingdom-adjacent content production outside the Hollywood infrastructure. The viral collapse of Bud Light, Target, and Disney's box office failures following overt ideological content injection demonstrated that audience sovereignty is real and consequences are enforced — a market check on the captured system's ability to use entertainment as a delivery mechanism for social engineering. Beauty, story, and wonder are breaking through the darkness franchise, not because Christians organized a boycott movement, but because sons are creating things people actually want.

Old — Systematically Dismantled to Produce State Dependents

The family was the primary target because it is the primary formation system. A child raised by a father who knows who he is, loves his children as Father loves His, and passes on covenant identity, financial wisdom, and vocational calling is essentially reformation-proof. That child has identity, inheritance, and belonging — and therefore needs nothing the state is offering. The twentieth century's assault on the family — no-fault divorce, welfare structures incentivizing fatherlessness, gender deconstruction, normalization of abortion — was not a collection of separate social trends. It was a unified strategy to produce the orphan condition at civilizational scale.

New — Fathers Turning Hearts to Sons, Releasing Generational Inheritance

The spirit of Elijah is a father spirit — and the Reformation turns on whether fathers will turn their hearts toward their sons and daughters before the moment passes (Malachi 4:6). Kingdom family is the antidote to the orphan civilization: where identity is spoken over children before the world can define them, where inheritance is accumulated and transferred, where sons learn what sonship looks like by watching their fathers walk with Father. Every healthy family is a Reformation cell.

Co-laboring Actions for Sons and Daughters

Speak identity over your children specifically and regularly — not generic affirmation but prophetic declaration of what you see Father putting in them. Build a family Council practice: pray together from a son's posture, not a servant's. Our business coaching deliverables can be used for family, school, or adult mentoring — Lead Your Tribe Playbook.

Mentor other fathers toward sonship; the orphan spirit cannot reproduce what it has never received. Resist every policy that weakens the covenant family structure. And receive fathering yourself: sons who carry father spirits toward others must first be fathered.

Progress Already Made

The family mountain has seen the most culturally surprising reversal of the entire Reformation moment: a broad, multi-ethnic, cross-ideological rediscovery of fatherhood as the indispensable cultural variable. The data on fatherlessness — 70% of incarcerated men, 85% of behaviorally disturbed youth, and the dominant predictor of poverty — has broken through to mainstream awareness in ways that the culture's gatekeepers can no longer contain. The Trump administration's aggressive enforcement actions against child trafficking networks — with more arrests and prosecutions in the first two years of his second term than the previous four administrations combined — represent the most significant governmental assault on the primary weapon used to compromise and leverage the powerful. Dobbs v. Jackson (2022) returned abortion policy to the states, removing the federal mandate that had made abortion-as-sacrament a permanent national institution — a decision with generational family-mountain implications. Hungary under Orbán has demonstrated a working model: substantial pro-natalist family policy (mortgage forgiveness for children, lifetime income tax exemption for mothers of four) producing birth rate recovery in a European nation that experts said was demographically irreversible. And at the grass-roots level, the fatherhood movement — from To Write Love on Her Arms to the Family Research Council to thousands of local father-mentoring ministries — is producing something the cabal cannot manufacture, men who know who they are and are turning their hearts toward their children.

Appendix 4 — Reformation Themes in Every Mountain

What the Evidence Tells Us: Reformation Themes Across All Seven Mountains

When you lay the progress in all seven mountains side by side, something unmistakable emerges. These are not isolated wins in separate domains. They share a common signature — the same themes running through every mountain simultaneously. That is not coincidence. That is a move of Father God. Here is what the Reformation pattern looks like.

1. Decentralization Is Dismantling Every Monopoly

In government, power is moving from federal agencies back to states, counties, and school boards. In media, the audience has fragmented away from six corporations into millions of independent voices. In business, ESG's attempt to centralize corporate values through capital allocation is being broken up by state-level defection and sound money alternatives. In education, school choice legislation is shattering the government's monopoly on where children learn and who decides what they're taught. In church, the platform is giving way to the Council — worship and authority moving out of centralized Sunday programs into the Monday workplaces of sons. In entertainment, streaming and independent distribution ended Hollywood's monopoly on what stories get told. In family, the rediscovery of fathers as the irreplaceable formation unit is rebuilding the most fundamental decentralized structure God ever designed: a household that doesn't need the state to tell it who it is. Decentralization is not a political philosophy. It is the architecture of the Kingdom — many members, one Body, each carrying their part of the metron.

2. Creativity Coupled with Boldness — The Elon Musk Signature

The most effective reformers in this moment share a recognizable posture: they are not filing complaints within the captured system — they are building something different and inviting everyone to come. Elon Musk bought the platform and changed the rules. Sound of Freedom didn't petition Hollywood; it bypassed Hollywood and sold 13 million tickets anyway. The Arizona ESA didn't reform public schools; it handed families the money and said build what you want. DOGE didn't propose reorganizing the bureaucracy — it showed up with a chainsaw. This is not the spirit of the servant asking permission. This is the spirit of the son who knows his Father owns the field. Sonship produces exactly this combination: creativity rooted in identity (I know who I am and what I'm building) and boldness rooted in authority (I don't need the system's approval to do it). The cabal's system was never going to reform itself. The sons who are making progress are the ones who stopped asking it to.

3. Public Decoupling from Mandatory Social Compliance — and Having Fun Doing It

One of the most surprising features of this Reformation moment is its tone. The cabal's script required sober compliance — nod at the approved narrative, signal the correct values, police the border of acceptable speech with appropriate gravity. What is breaking out instead is defiance with delight. Rogan laughs at the narrative. Musk posts memes while dismantling agencies. Parents showed up to school board meetings and refused to be shamed into silence. States are passing gold-as-legal-tender bills like it's a perfectly normal thing to do. Average people are canceling Bud Light not because a conservative organization told them to, but because they decided they were done being lectured. This public decoupling from mandatory social compliance is spiritually significant: it signals that the fear that enforced the cabal's orphan script is breaking down. Fear is the orphan's primary operating system. Joy is the son's. When people start laughing at the emperor's clothes, the spell is breaking — and the Reformation has historically moved fastest when the absurdity of the old system became impossible to maintain with a straight face.

4. Co-laboring with Prophetic Macro Themes from the Council (Living Words)

The prophetic community has been declaring exposure, decentralization, family restoration, and cultural reformation for decades — often without visible confirmation. What is now visible in the natural is the fulfillment of what was decreed in the Spirit. Trafficking networks are being exposed. Hidden financial mechanisms and corrupt cabal actors are being named publicly. The administrative state's surveillance apparatus is being unmasked. The education system's ideological capture is out in the open. This is the pattern of Council co-laboring: sons receive a Living Word about what Father is doing, decree it into a mountain, and then step into the fruit when the kairos moment arrives. The sons who are most effective in this moment are the ones who recognized that the macro prophetic themes — Isaiah 61 liberation, Malachi 4 father restoration, the Romans 8:19 revealing of sons — were not metaphors for a mystical experience. They were blueprints for what Father intended to build in every cultural sphere. When Council discernment aligns with kairos timing, the results are disproportionate to the resources deployed. That is the strategy of sons, freeing father to add!

5. Audience Sovereignty — People Are Choosing Their Own Formation

Across every mountain, the same phenomenon is visible: people are opting out of the appointed formation systems and selecting their own. They are choosing homeschool over the public school curriculum. They are choosing Substack and podcasts over network news. They are choosing Sound of Freedom over Marvel's latest ideological vehicle. They are choosing gold and Bitcoin over fiat savings accounts. They are choosing independent churches over denominations that have lost their prophetic voice. They are pulling their pensions from BlackRock. None of this required a coordinated movement. It required enough people, in enough domains, deciding simultaneously that they were no longer willing to be formed by a system they did not trust. This is what the collapse of the orphan condition looks like at civilizational scale: not a revolution, but millions of individual decisions to belong to something that is actually true. Sons and daughters who are building in their mountain right now are the ones these people are walking toward — because they have something the system cannot replicate: reality.

6. Exposure as a Governing Act — Light Is Doing Its Work

The cabal's system required secrecy to function. Its financial mechanisms worked only as long as the public didn't understand how the Federal Reserve transferred wealth through inflation and wars. Its media manipulation worked only as long as no one published the internal documents. Its pharmaceutical coordination worked only as long as the Event 201 planning was treated as unremarkable. Its trafficking leverage worked only as long as the Epstein client list stayed sealed. What is happening across every mountain right now is a systematic exposure — and the sons who are walking in Isaiah 61's mandate to proclaim liberty and open prison doors are the ones doing it: investigative journalists on Substack, whistleblowers protected by new legal frameworks, DOGE publishing government spending databases in real time, parents recording school board meetings and posting them publicly. Exposure is a governing act. When sons bring light into a domain, it does not return void. Every structure that cannot survive scrutiny is a structure that belongs to darkness — and darkness cannot hold its ground when sons who know their authority show up and turn on the lights.

7. The Speed of the Kairos — Acceleration Is Evidence of Father's Timing

Perhaps the most theologically significant feature of the current moment is its speed. School choice went from a fringe policy position to thirty-state legislation in under a decade. Legacy media's credibility collapsed within a single news cycle around COVID. Hollywood's cultural authority evaporated in roughly five years of audience-sovereignty decisions. The administrative state's reach — built over a century — is being dismantled in months. This acceleration does not fit a purely political explanation. Political movements at this scale normally take generations. What is happening instead looks like what happens when a kairos moment arrives: the preparation that sons have been doing in obscurity — in homeschool co-ops, in independent media startups, in Kingdom Business networks, in Council groups, in classical Christian schools — suddenly finds the cultural moment already prepared to receive it. Father does not hurry during the kronos season of preparation. But when He moves in kairos, the speed is disproportionate. The sons who did the slow work of formation in the season of waiting are the ones who are positioned to move when the door opens. This is not the moment to slow down. This is the moment every prior season of faithfulness was preparing.

8. Sonship — Seeing Purpose and Participation

There is remarkable progress in defeating the cabal and the spiritual component behind it on a national scale, analogous to an Isa 61 Reformation that rebuilds broken cities. There is also an exciting personal ingredient in this movement! God has determined to redeem nations with His sons and daughters; He has the power to do it sovereignly; He's just decided to use us!

As people are awakened by the manipulation of events like COVID and all the narrative propaganda that went with it, they begin to see God has an answer and an army. Michael Heiser did a masterful job of articulating the divine worldview in The Unseen Realm for a popular audience. He told the story of Sons in God's Council intentionally breaking covenant by marrying the daughters of men and falling from God's favor in Gen 6 and Enoch 6. The relevant implication is that Father is repopulating His Council (Rom 8:19) with new Sons and Daughters who are undefiled in covenant loyalty (Rev 14:4), not in marital status. See Sonship, Ascension, and Reformation for a full explanation.

As the awakening progresses, Sons and Daughters are no longer content to sit in pews and wait for the rapture – or to invest their lives in jobs that have no Kingdom Purpose. They want to ascend and have the conversations in the Council about their role in this Reformation and become participants in bringing Heaven to Earth in every mountain. They want to connect the dots between their calling and their vocation. They want to put the Kingdom first in co-laboring with Him and free Father to add provisions and fruit without striving (Mt 6:31-33). They want to utilize the Courts of Heaven to defeat strongholds and refute accusations, arguments, and perceptions (2Cor 10:3-5). Sonship stirs this one sentiment: Here Am I Lord, Send me. I want to play my role in Reformation.

The Reformation is not coming. It is here. The question is not whether Father is moving across the seven mountains — the evidence answers that. The question is whether the sons and daughters who carry His Kingdom in their specific metron are going to step into what He has already prepared.

The Commission

The cabal's agenda requires passive Christians waiting for extraction. Sons who know Father are its only effective counter — not because they organize opposition movements, but because they bring a different Kingdom into every space they occupy.

Father is not asking you to defeat the whole system. He's asking you to be faithful in the sphere He assigned you. The sons who do that are the ones creation is groaning for.

"For the anxious longing of the creation waits eagerly for the revealing of the sons of God." — Rom 8:19

"Ask of Me, and I will give You the nations for Your inheritance." — Ps 2:8

Here am I. Send me.
